TERRIBLE ACCIDENT

Trolley Car Run Down by an Express Train.

EIGHTEEN PEOPLE INSTANTLY KILLED

Long List of Dead-Only One of the Trolley Car's Passengers Escaped Unhurt.

COHOES, N. Y., Sept. 6 .- There was an appalling disaster in this city last night, when a trolley car of the Troy City Railroad company was struck by the Night Boat special of the Delaware and Hudson railroad at a crossing at the west end of the Hudson river bridge, which connects this city with Lansingburg.

Eighteen of the 35 passengers on the trolley care are dead, and at least ten of the remainder will die. The catastrophe was an awful spectacle.

The tracks of the street line run at a grade from the bridge to the point where the disaster took place. In consequence of this fact and of the frequent passage of trains it has been the rule for each motor car conductor to stop his car and go forward to observe the railroad tracks and signal his car to proceed if no trains are in sight. It cannot be ascertained whether that rule was complied with on this occasion, for all events prior to the crash are forgotten by those who participated in the

The motor car was struck directly in the center by the engine of the train, which was going at a high rate of speed. The accident came without the slightest warning. The car was upon the tracks before the train loomed in sight, and no power on earth could save it. The motorman evidently saw the train approaching as he reached the track, for he started the car at full speed, but his efforts were in vain.

Those in the front of the car met with the worst fate. The force of the collision was there experienced to the greatest degree, and every human being in that section of the car was killed. The scene was hormble. Bodies had been hurled into the air, and their headless and limbless trunks were found in some cases 50 feet from the crossing.

The pilot of the engine was smashed, and in the wreckage were the maimed bodies of two women. The passengers on the train suffered no injury in addition to a violent shock.

A majority of the passengers on the trolley car were young people. They included many women. There was absolutely no chance for them to save themselves from the crash. It came without the slightest warning.

The injured were taken to the City hospital and to the Continental Knitting mill, the former not having sufficient ambulance service to care for them all. The bodies were picked up in boxes and placed in a neighboring mill shed. Many of them were unrecognizable.

The train of the Delaware and Hudson railroad immediately after the accident proceeded to Troy. The engine driver said that he did not see the car until he was upon it. He tried to prevent his train from striking the car, but his efforts were fruitless. His train was going at a very high rate of speed at and was trying to make up lost time.

In consequence of the caution taken by the trolley road to ascertain if the tracks were clear at this crossing, the engine drivers of trains have always felt safe in running by at a high rate of speed. The engine driver says that the first he knew that the car was coming was when it came in sight at the corner of the street where the trossing is situated. He was but a short distance from the car at the time.

It was utterly impossible for him to bring his train to a standstill in order to avoid the accident. He thinks that the motorman, when he saw the train was upon him, tried to get beyond the danger line. The grade of this crossing and the speed at which his car was going also made it impossible for him to stop before he reached the Delaware and Hudson tracks. It was the front end of his car that caught the crash, and he was killed outright.

These bodies were identified: Archie Campeaux of Cohoes, James Temple of Langsingburg, Edward Barney of Cohoes, Mrs. John Craven of Cohoes, Miss Kittle Craven of Cohoes, Joseph Senz of Cohoes, Nellie Swett, 15 years old, of Cohoes, Mrs. Eliza McElroy of Cohoes, Mrs. James Taylor of Cohoes, Miss Winnie Craven of Cohoes, James Idnez of Cohoes, Mrs Ellen Shaw of Cohoes and John Timmins of Cohoes.

These are among the injured: Isaac Shaw of Cohoes, skull fractured; George Ankers of Cohoes, injured internally; John W. Suhtcliffe of Cohoes, head cut and ribs broken; Miss Lizzie McElroy of Cohces, leg broken. Mrs. Lizennesse of Cohoes, collar bone fractured and several ribs broken; she had a baby in her arms; it was crushed and will die; Emma Davishire of Cohoes, skull crushed; Mrs. James Temple of Lansingburg, jaw fractured and injured internally; Mrs. Ira Dewey of Cohoes, head crushed.

ARKANSAS ELECTION. Democrats Seem to Have Carried Every-

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 6 .- Arkansas yesterday elected a full corps of state officers, 100 members of the lower house of the legislature, 16 state senators, local officers in each of the 75 counties and voted on adoption of two important constitutional amendments, as well as the question of the liquor license in the different counties.

The Democratic state ticket, headed by Daniel W. Jones, is undoubtedly elected, the only question being the size of the Democratic plurality. The vote on the constitutional amendments is in doubt. One of these provides for the creation by the legislature of a ratiroad commission and the other for the levying of a tax of 3 mills for road purposes.

The Eighth New York was to have left yesterday for New York, but their cars failed to arrive, and they were compelled to wait until today.

Two paymasters, Major G. Bostwick and Major J. S. Wilkins, arrived yesterday and will be joined Thursday by two others. The only men to be paid at this camp will be Colonel Grigsby's Rough Riders, the Third United States volunteer cavalry and the Sixth United States volunteer infantry immunes and the hospital corps.

Colonel Grigsby's men will be mustered out of the service here next Saturday, having already turned over to the government officials their horses, arms, Cubans Surrender to Lawton.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Sept. 6.-Two hundred Cubans from General Cebreco's camp, in the hills near Cobre, this province, came to the city yesterday afternoon, surrendered their arms and asked for rations.

General Lawton took the arms and put the men to work on the water front to earn their rations.

The Cubans say their forces in Santiago province are suffering for want of food and are on the point of breaking out. They have no provisions and cannot get forage.

General Lawton has replied that he will ration all men who come to town, give up their arms and work for their keep, but that he will not supply any men who persist in keeping arms and sulking in the hills, wh be on the plantations helping to make harvest.

He believes it will not be long before most Cubans will have given up their the time. He was several minutes late fight for recognition and have returned to their homes.

Sternberg at Camp Wikoft.

CAMP WIKOFF, Montauk Point, N. Y., Sept. 6.—Surgeon General Sternberg arrived here yesterday from Washington to see for himself how the camp looked and to inquire into the sanitary arrangements. General Sternberg last night said that he had visited the hospitals and that he had found their condition excellent. He considered that the camp site had been well chosen. He was gratified by all that he had seen. He said that he had not come on a special mission, but simply on a visit of ordinary inspection. When he returns to Washington, he will make a verbal report to Secretary Alger.

Lawton's Sanitary Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. - General Lawton's report received by the war department concerning the health conditions of the American troops at Santiago is as follows:

"Total sick, 240; total fever cases, 185; total new cases of fever, 12; total returned to duty, 17. Deaths-Private John D. Michael, Company F, Eighth Ohio, malarial remittent fever; Private William Manley, Company H, Sixteenth infantry, typhoid fever; Charles Johnson, civilian, congestion of brain,"

British Flag Flies Over the Wails of the Palace.

LONDON, Sept. 6.-The war office received last evening the following dispatch, dated at Omdurman Sunday, from the sirdar. General Sir Herbert Kitchener:

"This morning the British and Egyptian flags were hoisted with due ceremony upon the walls of the Saraya (the palace) in Khartum.

"All the British wounded have left Abadia in barges towed by steamers. I saw them before leaving. They were all doing well and were comfortable.

"The cavalry sent in pursuit of the khalifa were compelled to abandon the attempt owing to the situation of the horses, but I have ordered camel squads to continue the pursuit."

The Betkin Poisoning Case. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.-Chief

THROUGH A FRIENDLY COUNTRY...

diers Salute the General, First Ship From Spain.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 6 .- Mafor General John R. Brooke, his staff and escort have completed two-thirds of their journey across the island to-ward this city. The march has been like a march through a friendly territory. On Saturday General Brooke stopped at Cayey. Sunday he reached Caguas, 20 miles from here. Yesterday afternoon he entered Rio Piedras, one of the aristocratic suburbs of San Juan, where he will establish his headquar-

General Brooke has accepted the hospitality of Captain General Macias, who graciously offered him the use of his private residence at Rio Piedras.

The column, though small, is imposing and is making a deep impression. As it wound its way over stately mountains, covered to their summits with coffee and tobacco plantations, and through broad savannahs and valleys General Brooke, with his chief of staff, rode at the head of the column. The natives, who had news of the coming of the Americans, lined the roads, theirfaces showing their pleasure, although there were no demonstrations. At intervals along the way the Spanish soldiers of the Guardia Civil presented arms as they passed. At Cayey and Caguas the Spanish commanders received General Brooke c with marked courtesies, and the alcaldes paid official visits, extendingwelcomes to their towns.

At Caguas, where 1,000 Spanish regulars are stationed under the command of Colonel Rodriguez, the ceremony was pretentious. The Spanish buglers gave-the flourishes in honor of a major general upon his arrival. Houses had been set apart for the accommodation of General Brooke and his staff.

The infantry and cavalry companies camped in the outskirts of the town and were visited by the Spanish soldiers. There was no display whatever of fil feeling. Spaniards and Americans mingled freely, fraternizing and exchanging buttons as souvenirs. Already many of the American soldiers are batton-less.

Spanish flags flew at Cayey and Caguas, but as guests in an enemy's country the Americans showed no colors save the cavalry guidon.

Our stalwart soldiers and massive horses cause ceaseless wonder to the natives, accustomed to men of small stature and nimble footed little ponies. The City of Cadiz of the Spanish Transatiantic line arrived yesterday from Corunna, the first ship direct from Spain to reach here since the termina-

Yesterday Afternoon. NEW YORK, Sept. 6 .- Admiral Sampson and the other American members of the commission appointed under the protocol with Spain for the evacuation of Cuba by Spain sailed from this port for Havana at 4:20 o'clock yesterday

The commission consists, besides Admiral Sampson, of Generals Wade and Butler.

Lieutenant Colonel J. W. Claus of the judge advocate general's office was also of the party and will act in the capacity of recorder and medical adviser of the commission.

As the Resolute steamed out she was heartily cheered by the tars on the Iowa and New York.

The Resolute will be used as the headquarters of the commission in Havana harbor if the Spanish authorities give permission, Admiral Sampson announced before sailing. If the authorities do not agree to this, the American commissioners will have their headquarters somewhere in the suburbs of Havana.

Point-Deaths at Camp Wikoff. WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.-In a report to the war department last night General Wheeler announces the death of ten men at Camp Wikoff yesterday, one of them being an "unknown soldier." General Wheeler's dispatch is as fol-

"Deaths since last report: Samuel Cook, private, Company B, Ninth infantry; unknown soldier; Herbert L. Jellman, sergeant, band, Fourth infantry; Thomas Furgeson, sergeant, Third cavalry; Michael Barlow, private, Company A, Twentieth infantry; Raymond D. Washburn, Company F, Thirty-third Michigan volunteers; Union W. Goff, sergeant, Company I, Seventy-first New York volunteers.

A dispatch received later by Adjutant General Corbin from General Wheeler reports the arrival of the transports Roumanian and Unionist with several hundred troops. General Wheeler reports the death of eight men additional to those whose death was noted in the above dispatch. Following is the text of the last dispatch:

OPENING OF CORTES.

Sagasta Asks Power to Give Up Colonial Sovereignty.

SENATE IN EXECUTIVE SESSION.

No Sensational Scenes Marked the Opening Session-Chamber Discusses the Press Censorship-Anarchist Rising Near Barcelona.

MADRID. Sept. 6.-Those who had expected sensational scenes on the reopening of the cortes were disappointed. The general public seems indifferent. The people at large are apparently convinced that Spain must accede to whatever the United States demands.

At the opening of the senate the secretary read a letter from Senor Rodriguez, senator from Porto Rico, refusing to obey the summons to attend.

The premier, Senor Sagasta, arrayed in the insignia of his office, ascended the tribune and read a decree authorizing the government to present to the chamber a draft of a law empowering the ministers to renounce sovereignty over the colonies, in conformity with the stipulations of the peace preliminaries between Spain and the United

The president of the senate proposed a secret discussion of the decree and despite the protests of some senators ordered that the galleries be cleared. which was done amid loud murmurs of disapproval.

According to the statements of several senators, Senor Sagasta, after the senate galleries had been cleared, proposed that questions relating to territorial cessions be discussed in secret. Replying to criticisms of such a procedure, the premier urged that delicate matters of such a nature were always discussed in secret. Moreover, he pointed out, the existing situation was very grave. Spain having obtained only a suspension of hostilities, and indiscreet parliamentary language might interfere with the diplomatic negotiations.

When these negotiations had been concluded, he would be willing to publish everything, he said, and to accept all the responsibility, but now it was necessary to be united before the enemy. Therefore the government appealed to the patriotism of the representatives of the people to prevent sensational discussions that might sterilize the ends desired by the country.

Senor Montero Rics, president of the senate, then proposed that the stenographers retire. The motion was adopted. Senor Sagasta formally demanded a secret session for a discussion of the protocol, and after several lively protests the demand was voted by 57

The chamber soon after its opening became involved in a discussion of press censorship, and a deputy inquired the yards. motive underlying a circular which General Chinchilla, captain general of Madrid, had addressed to newspapers, regulating their reports of the sessions of the cortes. He declared that the censorship was inconsistently applied and that the effect of the circular was to punish possible errors in advance.

At the close of the censorship discussion, in which deputies who are journalists protested emphatically against the attitude of the government, Senor Romero y Robledo accused the government of illegality in continuing the suspension of the constitutional guarantees after the reopening of the cortes. He demanded immediate decrees revoking the suspension.

Senor Capdepon, the minister of the replied that the time was not opportune to revoke the suspension and reminded Senor Romero y Robledo that a former government, of which Senor Romero y Robledo was a member, had acted in the same way in 1875.

The chamber then adjourned. The Conservatives have decided to continue to support the government. Although several Conservative senators pronounced against the principle of Senor Sagasta's proposal, they voted for it in secret session. All the other opposition parties will energetically oppose the government.

The Official Gazette today publishes a royal decree appointing M. Faure, president of the French republic, a knight of the Golden Fleece.

A dispatch to El Liberal from Barceiona says the local gendarmes have surprised and arrested an armed band of 87 men and that another band has appeared near Hospitalet, four miles southwest of Barcelona. Troops have been sent in pursuit.

The arrests at Barcelona were made at an anarchist meeting at the very moment when arms were being distributed.

Many escaped and afterward attacked and disarmed the octroi guards at Hospitalet.

All the known anarchists in Barcelona have since been arrested.

Commission at Work-Transport Tacon Arrives. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6 .- The United States transport steamer Lakme has arrived from Honolulu, bringing the following advices under date of Aug. 22:

The Hawaiian commission is getting down to work in earnest and on Friday and Saturday held prolonged sessions. all the members being present. The first subject considered was a name to be given the territory, and the form of government was also discussed, with the number of federal officials to act in the territory. The subject of federal laws and their application was the chief topic at Saturday's session. Arrangements are being perfected for a tour of the islands by the commission, and tonight the steamer Claudine will leave here. All the principal points in the various islands will be visited, after which the party will return to Honolulu, probably arriving here on Saturday.

The United States transport ship Tacoma with 200 horses and mules for the army at Manila arrived off here last night. Four horses were lost on the voyage. The vessel will remain here about a week. The vessel will not sail through the treacherous Balling Tang channel, but will be met by a towboat sent by General Merritt and towed through the straits of Bernardna to her station. This will shorten the journey considerably.

Captain Book of the United States cruiser Mohican has been ordered to take his vessel to Mare Island. The vessel probably will sail on Tuesday

There is a strong feeling of friendship for the United States among the Chinese in the islands, especially among the higher class, and they look to the new government to give them all the privileges enjoyed by them under the old regime.

The Honolulu garrison is still camped at the race track, and there is no present intention of moving the camp. The strictest discipline is maintained, and visitors are kept outside the lines. Stores of all kinds are arriving rap-

DUTCH GIRL OUEEN

Wilhelmina's Inaugural Ceremonies Began Yesterday.

CORONATION TO TAKE PLACE TODAY.

In Amsterdam - Enthusiastic Greetings of the Hollanders-Brilliant Seenes From the Train to the Palace

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Sept. 6.-The inauguration ceremonies of the reign of the girl queen of Holland began yesterday with the triumphal entry of Wilhelmina into the metropolis and her reception to the burghers at the historic Stadhuis.

Visitors from every country in the civilized world are here, and the representatives of every Christian country paid the respects of their governments at the royal palace.

Queen Wilhelmina appeared to her people on the balcony of the palace, built by Van Kampen two centuries ago and made the home of Louis Bonaparte 90 years before the coronation which will take place today.

The girl queen was accompanied to Amsterdam from The Hague by her mother, the queen regent. The quaint streets were crowled with royal subjects from the remotest villages of the Netherlands

Peasants in the custumes of a century ago clattered along the pavements in their wooden shoes with the visitors who had arrived by steamship and continental express and by post from some of the famous resorts just over the boundaries of the little kingdom.

And in the halls of the Dutch mansions, at the consulates, everywhere in state equipage, the diplomats of other countries were entertained, received and

The queen and her mother were greeted by the government and city officers and other dignitaries, who were awaiting the arrival of the royal train at the station, and their majesties entered their respective carriages amid the cheers of the multitude. The queen and her mother each occupied a state carriage drawn by eight horses.

Everything was speedily in readiness. and the procession set out for the palace through a route lined by wildly enthusiastic and loudly cheering crowds. The procession was a long one and was composed of guards, high dignitaries and functionaries, Indian princes and others in great variety of uniform and insignia.

The head of the procession reached the Dam at 3:10 p. m. The troops, cavalry, infantry, marines, guards, etc. were massed in the center of the square. The scene became more and more brilliant as the state carriages with the high officials and ladies of the court arrived, until, when the queen's carriage entered the inclosure, the sight was truly imposing.

The queen was attired in white satin, with a beautiful necklace of pearls, and wore a small hat with aigrets,

Strayed from Ris Rome Near Wurte-bere and seems a Night in the Woods -Found Two Miles from Ris Some.

From Our Haven Correspondent. There was much excitement here, Saturday night and Sunday morning, caused by the disappearance of and search for the two-and-a-half-year-old son of Mr. Rodgers, whose summer home is on the Wurtsboro road, two miles north of here. The child was missed about 6 o'clock, Saturday evening, and as Mr. Rodgers last saw him back of the house and near the woode it was assumed that he had strayed into the woods and had not been able to find his way out. An alarm was given and a search was began by Mr. Rodgers and some of his near neighbors, but without success. Mr. Rodgers and several others kept up the search all night, and early Sanday morning word that the child was lost was sent to Wurtsboro and this village, and a large crowd hurried out to join in the search.

Their services were not needed, however, for Frank Babcock, who had been one of those who spent the night looking for the lost boy, while on his way home about 9 o'clock in the morning, found the boy about two miles from the Rodgers house. The little chap was barelooted and bareheaded but was all right. How such a small child could have undergone such an experience and traveled so far is hard to understand.

Italians in a Brawl Use Knives and a Pistol.

A party of Italians employed on the Milford and Matamoras railroad got into a quarrel on the Barrett Bridge at Port Jervis, Friday night, in which a pistol and knives were used and which resulted in the shooting of Vincinio Stabill and the clashing of John Voldeno. The party had been drinking. The stories of the affray do Inot agree, but Stabill is said to have cut Voldeno and to have been shot by one of the latter's friends, who then ran away. Stabill's condition is regarded as critical.

Shockingly Burned by Muriatic Acid.

Pearl Millham, a little Port Jervis girl, while playing barefooted on the public dumping grounds in that village, Wednesday, stepped into some muriatic acid which some one had spilled there which ate away the flesh from the sole of her foot down to the bones. The skin on the top of the foot and between the toes were also eaten away by the fiery acid.

IN A DOCTOR'S OFFICE.

Much Time Wasted That Might Be More Profitably Employed.

"If I could have used the time I have spent waiting in doctors' offices during the past two years," said a lady who has been a partial invalid during that time, reports the Washington Star, "in some employment, even humble in its nature, I would have had money to buy war bonds now. It's curious, too, that I scarcely ever see the same people in the office. There are always new faces and new complaints. I presume. I have wondered why doctors do not utilize the check system which barbers adopt on crowded Saturday nights. When a patient comes in give him or her, as the case may be (and it is oftener her than him), a number which will be called in regular order. Then one could take it, go shopping, or in the park, or anywhere rather than sit and wait hour after hour for your 'turn.' To me there is nothing more depressing than to sit in a doctor's office and see suffering patients go and come. Then you see people who look perfectly well and wonder what ails them. All the various diseases people can have troop through your mind, and you really grow morbid over it. I think it leads to the continued illhealth of people to be compelled to wait, as they have to do, for the popular physicians."

nice, large tapestry-hung chambers in genuine Renaissance palaces for the amall sum of 20 lire or less per week, are likely to pay more for their accommodations in the future. A syndicate has been formed abroad to get possession of these old palaces and turn them into improved modern houses. The syndicate, which has plenty of British capital to back it, is the outgrowth of the Venice Hotel company, which recently took over the Hotel Royal Daniell, the Grand, and the Victoria at Venice. The company was quiefly erganised to Leaden three years ago and the average profits have been $63,015 on & working capital of

TILLES FOR EDITORS.

Sucheses and Counteres Income fully Operate an Expensive Newspaper.

For the first time in history, in recent history at any rate. duchesses and countesses have run a newspaper. and some of the greatest people in the fiterary, artistic and musical worldsand other worlds ad infinitum-have formed the staff, says the New York Mail and Express.

This wonderful little newspaper was called the Free Bazaar News, and was published daily at the London Press Bazaar, held for reimbursing the coffers of the London hospital. It was "free," however, only in name, for no daily newspaper could ever hope to touch the prices obtained for it-for its aristocratic proprietors sold it for 30 cents a copy. The idea of the paper seemed to strike half a dozen women at once, so no one can claim to be its originator. but the cause of it was the donation to the bazaar committee, by the directors of a linotype company, of one of their machines as an exhibit. It seemed a shame that $4,000 of useful machinery should not be utilized, so the Duchess of Sutherland and some of her clique planned the little paper which proved such a success. It was really "the" attraction of the bazaar, for people went miles to see the belles of the most aristocratic society in England operate the machine, sort type, use the rollers, pull proofs and ink their fingers. Among the contributors were the most famous editors of London. famous statesmen of Joseph Chamberlain's stamp, actors, with Sir Henry Irving as chief, and other celebrities too numerous to mention.

MEN ARE NOT THE MOTIVE.

Women Do Not Always Don Their Prettiest Frocks to Win Masculine Smiles.

There is fallacy-confined, though, to the masculine half of society-and that is that women dress for men. Of course all women know better than that and laught at it in their sleeves as the most ridiculcus of ideas. Most of them would like, though, to let men go on thinking so, but I don't care, so I'm going to tell, says a woman in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. I think any creature who belongs to such a stupid sex ought not to be allowedif there is any way of enlightening him-to go on thinking that any woman would throw away time and material to dress for him. Let me tell you, please, what I heard once. It was this: A woman of my acquaintance was clothed in a most beautiful dinner suit, which had cost hundreds of dollars. She were it for the first time with an air of a queen-ah, me. who couldn't have worn it so?-and looked as if she had just stepped down out of the latest Parisian fashion sheet. A man looked at her-a man who had reached an age when he ought to have had discretion and who was still not in his dotage-looked at her and said: "That's your last winter's suit, is it not?"

I don't think I need to tell you more, but I will. Another human adult of the same sex told me once that my gown was very beautiful. It was a ten-cent lawn that I myself had made. Sc. of course, all women save up their best clothes for people who can appreciate them, and those people are not men.

CAST-OFF BABY CARRIAGES.

Some Odd Tses to Which the Discarded Perambulators Are Put.

When the baby grows up or the perambulator becomes too shabby for further exhibition in public, it does not follow, by any means, that the latter's period of usefulness is ended. In fact, it has just graduated from one season of utility into another, as may be ascertained of the second-hand furniture dealers on the east side, says the New York Herald. These merchants deal heavily in cast-off "baby buggies," as they term them, and from offering conveyance to infants the vehicles pass on to employments at once multifarious and curiously inappropriate. The Italian itinerant musicians purchase them to trundle their small barrel organs about the city; the Greek flower sellers stock them with their fragrant wares and push them in every direction; washerwomen, too, are good customers and use the versatile perambulator as a means of conveying bundles of linen to and from their customers'

But the list would not be complete unless the roving candy merchants were included. These venders are covering long stretches of city territory every day, wheeling before them second-hand perambulators on which rest tiny showcases filled with confectionery. So, too, the "nice-a-banan" men are, in instances, discarding the heavy pushcarts for the light and easily moved baby carriage, which in time bids fair to supplant all vehicles of the hand power variety now in general

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

The Democratic electors of the State of New York are requested to unite in sending three delegates and three siternates from each Assembly District to a State Convention, to be held at Syracuse, Wednesday, Sept. 28th, 1888, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of placing in nomination cendidates to be voted for at the ensuing general election and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention. ELLIOT DANFORTH, Chairman. August 18th, 1858.

The Newburgh Telegram says that Henry Chadeayne, of Cornwall, is mentioned as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Senator in this district.

The soldiers at Camp Black are almost in a panic. Typhoid lever continues to claim a score of victims every day and black diphtheria has also broken out. Thirty members of one company of the 203d Regiment deserted, Monday.

The nomination of "young Jimmy" Graham for Member of Assembly is not satisfactory to many Republicans in the First District. They say he is being pushed too fast and that the rewards and honors in the gift of the party should | for Evans; instrumental music by Mrs. be given to those who have done the J. Ed. Brown; solo by Henry L. Adams; hard work for it and fought its battles | duet by Mrs. Olney and Mrs. Brown; in the past. The Telegram says that if duet by Mrs. H. L. Adams, and vocal the election was held to-day he would and instrumental music by Mrs. John run from 100 to 500 votes behind his

According to the esteemed Press, the petty patronage involved in the appointment of election inspectors and clerks is the bone over which our hungry Republican friends are wrangling. The Press 18 hardly fair to the anti-machine faction. Their revelt is against the dictatoria and selfish policy of the "old gang," which has denied them a voice in party affairs. Their fight is for recognition and the matter of election patronage is only incidental,

After a conference, Monday, with Payn, Aldridge and other office holders Gov. Black announced that he was a candidate for renomination and would remain in the field until the end. The Governor and his allies are full of fight and are prepared to carry the contest just as far as may be necessary to win. They profess to have no fear of Roosevelt - candidacy and say be has no following outside of New York city and none there except such as has been manufactured by the machine leaders. They say that they can win unless Plaft comes out positively against Gov. Bluck, and if he does that Lou Payn intimates that there will be such a fight in the convention as there has not been in any political gathering | ner. in this State in years. The Governor's determination to fight for his political life adds new interest to the political situation, and whatever the effect on State politics insures the liveliest anteconvention campaign that the Republican party has known in years.

A GOLDEN WEDDING.

The Pittleth Anniversary of the Marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. P. Korn Fittingly Celebrated-Bany Gifts from Relatives and Priends-The Mænnerchor's Serenade and Resolu-

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. P. Korn celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, Monday night, at their attractive home and other luxuries, says the Cleveland on Mulberry street. Belding made the interior of the house and the porch a bower of flowers and patriotic drapery.

Mr. and Mrs. Korn were assisted in receiving by four daughters, Mrs. W. L. Wolf, of Ellenville, Miss Emma E. Korn, Mrs. Bertha Olney, of this city, and Mrs. J. Ed. Brown, of Englewood, and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Emma M. Korn, of this city. Thirteen grandchildren him. were present and added to the pleasure of the evening.

After the congratulations of about eighty relatives and friends who were head. present had been showered apon the venerable couple, a musical and literary programme was given which included the making of a German speech by Rec-Jordan.

Refreshments followed and games and dancing were continued until a late hour. The couple received many gifts of gold, and Monday morning the Mænnerchor marched to the house and serenaded the couple and presented them with a handsomely prepared set of resolutions. copies of which were given the children and grandchildren.

Mr. Korn was born in Johannes, Germany, in 1824, and is a tanner by trade. He came here when he was twenty-three years of age and a year later be married | now being made in France, where they Miss Louisa Julia Bentz. He embarked in the tanning business in Schoharie and was there seven years. From there he went to Sparrowbush and remained there four years as superintendent of a tannery. He then went in business for himself at Wurtsboro, and while there sent samples of his work to Paris expositions, for which he received awards.

He came to Middletown twenty-five years ago and sugaged in business for himself until twelve years ago when he went with Howell, Hinchman & Co., where he has remained to this day,-one of their most valued employes.

Eight children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Korn, of whom three are dead: Charles, who was at one time foreman of Excelsiors; Julia, and one who died in infancy. The survivors are the daughters mentioned above and one son, Julius F., of this city, who is a most capable tai-

MONEY AND WAR.

Russia Is Putting Forth Strennous Efforts to Strengthen Her Credit Abroad.

In the future conflict between Great Britain and Russia finance will be quite as important a factor as armsments, says the National Review. The issue will not be decdied by the first shock of arms, but by the alow, wearing financial strain to follow. It will be a question of staying powers, and that will be a money, even more than a military, question. In her costly wars of recent times Russia has not distinguished herself much financially. She was completely worn out by two years' fighting in a small corner of the Crimea. Her short campaign against the Turks in 1877-8 so disorganized her finances that it took them 15 years to recover. The Russians themselves are well aware of this vital defect in their military power, and they have of late years made strenuous effrots to remedy it. To that end both their foreign policy and their financial policy are being studiously directed.

Assistance in strengthening Russian credit abroad and replenishing the ship. Prince Bismarck, much as he thought the terms demanded too high. He would not throw open German savings to be exploited by the loan mongers and mortgage brokers of St. Petersburg. So little did he like these gentry that he had Russian securities tabooed in Berlin, and the Imperial bank of Germany ceased to make advances on them.

TOOK HIM AT HIS WORD.

A Small Boy with Bohemian Instincts Who Disdained White

Duck Suits.

A certain newspaper man has a little protege of six years who frequently tastes of his bounty in the shape of soda water and peanuts and popcorn Leader. What the scribe especially likes about the little fellow is his scorn of social amenities. He is one of the boys who delights in dirt, and plenty of it, and dirt is decidedly becoming to him. A few days ago he came out of his home in a spick-andspan suit of white.

"Hullo," be said to the scribe. But the latter professed not to know

"Don't you know me?" cried the little fellow. "I'm Georgie." But the newspaper man shook his

"I don't know any such clean boys," he said. "The boys I like best are always nice and dirty." Then he walked on, while the boy feil Pretty soon he heard the patter of little feet behind him. "Mr. Blank," cried a shrill voice, "am

I dirty enough now?" He looked around. The young scamp had actually rolled himself in the cutter! And it was weeks before the newspaper man dared to visit the boy's mother without fear and trembling.

Spiders' Webs for Ballrooms, Spiders' webs have passed through many usages, from the styptic of a thousand years ago to the festooning of cellars and bottles in which "old" wines are stored, but not the least striking of their adaptations is that are spun for the making of balloons. The resulting texture is much lighter than ordinary silk of the same bulk, and stra guards for military balloons are also made of it. The spiders are grouped in dezens before a reel, which withdraws the delicate threads After giving a thread of 20 to 40 yards, the spider is released. Eight threads have to be combined.

Spoke in Plain English. A statement made in good faith, but difficult to accept, was recently offered to his congregation by a country pastor. He had been holding forth on the advantages of plain speaking.

"Why, brethren," he said, bringing his hand down upon the pulpit with great vigor, "there's no need of all these long words and high-sounding terms; not a bit. Look at St. Paul! Look at St. Paul, I say! His words were full of the meat of knowledge and help, and he didn't make use of any five-syllable talk. No, he always spoke in plain, simple English, my brethren!"-Tit-Bits.

Hopeful Gleam. Mrs. Becky-Dear, oh, dear, my cold's getting worse and worse. I'm getting so I can't talk. I'wonder what I'd better do?

A VISIT TO CAMP WIKOFF.

AN ARGUS MAN'S EXPERIENCE AND IMPRESSIONS

A Midwhyte strat for Sert Stankasellow and the Camp, at the First-Beguin? Cavatry-A Bivous in the Spen Air-Sick Call a Pitiful Scene-The Colored Treage Receptelt's Address to the Bough Elders-A Scene at the station

Camp Wikoff, situated 120 miles from Long Island Chy, on Long Island's eastern end, is just now one of the most interesting places in the United States. Middletowness have an especial interest in the place for the reason that three of its representatives are there or were Fred Seeland was given a furlough, Saturday, Dr. Chas. I. Winant arrived there Sunday and Bert Rockafellow has been there since last Tuesday.

An Argus representative accompanied Fred O. Rockafellow to the camp, Saturday night, reaching there about 11:30 p. m. We arrived at Long Island City just in time to meet the President and party and participated in the demonstration given the Nation's executive there. His presence on the Long Island road that day "queered" the road, however. Schedules were knocked endways after everything had been side tracked to make room for "the President's train." The fast special for Montank Point, due to leave at 5 p. m. and make the run in three hours, was balt an hour late in starting and required five hours to cover the island.

At Montauk Point a few regulars were found and the distance up and down and around the hills to the First Regular Cavalry was variously estimated by them at from two to four miles. No way of getting there could be found except to walk, and with arms burd-ned with bundles we started off, the moon showing the path part of the time. There were tents everywhere in the distance and just above us on the brow of the highest point was the detention camp where yellow or "pernicious" fever is being fought by the authorities. A short cut over that hill would have saved at least a mile of walking, but mounted and patroling pickets with loaded carbines. and rifles prevented any such attempt.

X wly made military roads were everywhere, and they lead to all parts of the camp, but meeting an occasional rambling soldier the road to the cavalrymen's camp was kept. Everybody about the camp was asleep save in occasional first corgeant tents. Theair was tainted with the breath of fourteen thousand men and five or six thousand horses, and one hesitated to venture into the hot beds of these sleeping men.

A man came out of a lighted tent 300 yards from the roadway and a call elicited the fact that he was one of the First Regular Cavairymen.

The hunt for Private Bockafellow in been transferred to Proop L. Everybody was asleep in Troop L, so the hunt for the only Middletowner in the U. S. Cavalry was given up for the night. The ground was there, and we threw ourselves down on it and rolled and tossed about until both fell asleep.

We were up early, and passing through the rows of tents discovered Bert sharing a tent with three others, all asleep. When he did awake we learned and saw that he is in good health. Strong, rugged, athletic and brave-hearted, he looks an ideal soldier. His first sergeaut, a new one, who had been raised to the position from the ranks on this second enlistment, detailed Bert to water horses. There are a thousand borses in this troop, and half of the riders are sick. In consequence the well men are obliged to do double work. Each horse has to be taken to Fresh Pond Bay, three miles away, to be watered, and each of the detailed riders took two horses besides the one he rode to the fresh water. This over, Bert was relieved from further service during the day, and was our escort. At the first call for revielle the bands attached to each organization went to the middle street and played Two selections. The First Cavalry's band of twenty pieces marched five strong to the accustomed place and played as best they could. The other members are sick. Then came roll call, and such men as could responded. Breakfast next, and bacon from which the lean had been stricken, hard-tick, halt a cup of coffee (and in a few companies donated eggs) were served. "Water the horses," and then sick call followed. The latter produced one of the most pitiful sights we had ever seeu. For miles the unfortunates could be seen moving slowly toward the regimental hospital tents. Some could not walk alone; others seemed likely to fall at any moment, and still others who seemed to have escaped this particular disease, were wrapped in blankets and shuffled. shivering and shaking, over the rough ground:

They all looked alike, pale, thin, weak at the knees and neck and they gazed into space like men in trances. Most of there men belong in the hospitals which have been constructed, but they all fear the cots there. They only see the impromptu cemetery on the hill behind it, and the burning uniforms and bed cloths so could be seen heading for the surf, half a mile away, and in two hours, several thousand men had bathed in the delicious salt swells.

Over to the southern side of Montank Fornt, and just below the life saving stution are the colored regiments of extalry and injustry. Here the same dissiply is to be laund as in any other etterts. the stand of the standard standards

They have commissioned officers from West Point, the non-come being colored.

The Rough Riders are to be found on the opposite knolls, and we reached their camp just in time, Sunday morning, to hear Teddy Roosevelt address his men. The Rough Riders were of great interest-next to Teddy's teeth, and no cartoou ever exaggerated those teeth. To tell about them, their natty equipment, the speech, and the young lady with the the camera who got there just too late to enap Teddy during his address would take too long.

At the guard test of the cavalrymen we saw an unfortunate recruit who went to sleep on post at Lakeland, Florida, and who will probably be sent to Leavenworth prison for three years. Another prisoner was in chains. He shot and killed a comrade during a drunken argument at Lakeland.

Hurrying over to the general hospital, on inquiry we found that Fred Secland had just been furloughed and left that morning. Dr. Winant was aboard one of the transports which lay out in Fresh

At the general hospital we found Mrs. Cooper, a graduate of Thrall Hospital's Training School. She is in charge of Ward G., having four nurses and three orderlies at her service. Only one death has occurred since her service there, but while we talked a silent soldier was carried out from the opposite ward. The men in these wards all wear pajamas, and but few are covered in any other way. A cooling breeze passed over them and the odor of sweet perfumes gave this immediate place as homelike and comfortable a picture as one could ask to see in a hospital. The patients are all dazed. They look vacantly into space and eee only the body-crushing, heart-breaking scenes of San Juan hill, El Caney or the fever-intelted and feverladen transports.

Only a few colored men are in this hospital. They are not sick. If a hundred of them walked about town, to-day, they couldn't be told from those now on Fulton street.

The last war has plainly shown, however, that the despised "nigger" and the deepised umis are two of the greatest bulwarks in the American army of today. The white regulars at Montank cannot say too much for the bravery and endurance of the colored cavalry and infautry. Some of the tale- about the Rough Riders and the 71st Regiment may yet appear in history, though now suppressed by the new-papers.

The negroes have the best looking horses at Montank and they ride them well. They were without them at San Juan, however, and the boys were glad to get them back on arriving at Montank.

To tell the whole story of a day at Camp Wikoff would take several pages of the ARGUS. It must be said, however, that what are needed at Montank Camp are more doctors, more murees, (and as a matural sequence fewer fun-Troop M was then commenced under his erals,) better food, and of the kind needguidance and it was learned that he had ed by sick men, not robust soldiers. Company cooks need matractions in order that much good food may be not wasted in preparation. The water is wile and not turned on all day. Men should be visited in tents by doctors and nurses, not compelled to walk a quarter of a mile or further for medicine.

Pitiful incidents will greet the visitor at Montank, and you'll come home satisfied that the boys who have been suffering for the past three months are entitled to better treatment than they are now

Sunday afternoon, the little shed at Montank, which does duty for a depot, was crowded with soldiers and their friends. On one scat lay a boy-only a boy-his foot and leg torn by a bullet and bound up from toes to knee. His sister of sixteen held his head in her lap, and his mother held his hand. The boy could not speak, but he looked up into his mother's face and patted her hand with his free one, and while tears trickled down the faces of many about who caw the scene, this little group was brave and strong and the hopes for his recovery were strengthened by their being re-

OBITUARY.

William Edward Birst. William Edward Hirst died at his home, 71 Irwin avenue, this morning. A more extended obituary will be given to:

William H. Ward.

William H. Ward, a highly respected eitizen of Sloatsburgh, died at his home, Saturday, Aug. 3, of heart disease, in his eventy-eighth year.

He was born in Warwick, Oct. 1820, and was the son of Thomas and Boadicea Ward. He was married June 13, 1855 to Clara Seely, of Chester, N. Y., who survives him with four sons, Frank D., of Paterson, N. J.; ex-Supervisor T. Harry and J. Everett at home and Fred D., of Middletown. Another son Charles E., who was an engineer on the O. and W. railroad, met with an accident at East Branch, May 14. 1892, and was brought to Thrall Hospital, this city, where he died.

Mr. Ward was a man liked by all who knew him, for he made friends with all he came in contact with and will be greatly missed. The funeral was held from his late home, Tuesday morning, at 9 o'clock. The interment was in the family plot, Warwick.

A Young Woman's Brath Way Maye Seen Accident or Suicide.

Lola Terwilliger, twenty-six years old, dinghter of Nelson Terwilliger, who keeps a geueral store in Ellenville, was drowned in the canal, near Summitville, Miss Terwilliger was at one time a atient at the State Hosnital, and there are some reasons for thinking that she committed suicide. She was riding ber wheel on the tow path and others think she lost her balance and fell in the canal.

When she left home it was understood that she was going to ride to Poughkeepsie to attend the fair, but she came in the opposite direction from the one she was expected to take.

The sunday Excursion to Midway Park Some 300 members of the Adams Express Benevolent Association of New York came on the excursion to Midway Park, Sunday. They reached here by the O. and W. at noon, and despite the intense heat had such a good time at the Exitacts Cloves and park and enjoyed its varied amusements so thoroughly that when they left at 8:30 they declared that when they come again it would be 1,000 strong.

"Den't cheer, the poor devils are dying."
The guns had just ceased their deep roar, And the great Spanish battleship lying All riddled and running with gore, Had flown the white flag of submission; Our tars drawing rapidly near.

Elate with their victory's fruition,
Were beginning like madmen to cheer. They stopped when their captain had The shouting and tumult grew still,

And standing in silence unbroken, All felt a quick, generous thrill Of pity, respect, admiration, For foemen so suffering, so brave, And bastened, each man in his station, To bind up their wounds, and to save.

Thrice thanks, gallant captain, for trying War's horrors and pains to assauge, "Don't cheer, the poor devils are dying," Ushers in a more chivalrous age

JUST TOO LATE.

An Experience on an Island in the South Pacific

By Herbert M. Brace.

THE storm was over. The Pacific had calmed again. The waves rolled in and broke on the sandy shore of the little guano island as monotonously as before; but nowhere was the schooner Martha, a week overdue with water and provisions for the men, to be seen. It was hardly probable that she could have lived through the gale.

The "niggers," the cowardly wretches, had stolen the bulk of the water the night after the storm, and had put off in an open boat for their nearest neighbor, miles away over the track¹ess ocean.

There were 12 of the blacks. They might have killed their two white "bosses," but they seemed to have been satisfied with leaving them to die of thirst and to bleach with the guano beneath the burning sun of the South Pacific.

The two white men were brothers. They had come to the island a few months before to superintend the guano gathering. The tropic fever had seized Harry, the younger of the two, and even when the storm broke he was raving with delirium. A week later, when calm came over the troubled waters, he was slowly recovering. Their scanty supply of water was fast diminishing and no signs of the Martha The elder brother, Tom. was becoming hopeless. They would have been without water long before, but Tom had not taken his share. He had hardly drunk enough to keep his dry. parehed throat from cracking during those days when Harry's fever was the worst, and Harry raved about rippling brooks, the orchard, and the old apple tree that grew by their bedroom window at home.

Another morning, and no sign of the boat in all the wide stretch of blue

Harry roused himself from his stupor, and looked eagerly into his broth-

"No signs of the Martha this morning, Tom?" he said, feebly.

"None, Harry, none." The sick man fell back wearily. Tom Dudley turned his face away to hide

"Well, never mind, old man," Harry tried to say, cheerfully; "we'll pull through all right, never fear. How long did you say the water would

Tom had not said, but Harry caught him unguarded for the moment. "Two days only, Harry, and-and"-Tom's voice faltered-"two days at the most, and-and the storm-

"Yes, yes, I know, Tom," the sick man went on; "the Martha may have gone down in the storm last week, but 'while there is life there is hope,' you know, old man, and I suppose the same may be said of water; so cheer up, old fellow; two days are a long time sometimes, you know, and the schooner has probably only been driven off her course. If such is the ase she'll be here before Wednesday; we'll be all right, after all. Make the best of it, Tom, and let's see what we have for breakfast."

There was but little enough to eat, and but a drop of water to quench their consuming craving.

They are in silence. When they had finished Tom left the little hut and hastened down to the beach. He gazed long and wistfully over the sea, but there was only the placed blue water glistening in the sunlight. Not a sign of life in all the great expanse, except now and then a sea bird slamming over the waves toward that line in the distance where the blue sea and the still bluer heavens met.

"No sign of a sail, no hope for relief," he sighed, as he threw Limself down upon the sand.

There was a terrible pain in his head and his limbs were becoming unbearable. He knew what that meant-before long he, too, would be down with the fever. His throat was dry and parched, and burning with a terrible

He had already consumed his share of the water for the morning, and to take more would be death to Harry.

"Two days, only two days," he muttered; "not much chance in that time if the Martha has gone to the bottom, Tour or five, there might be hope." He began to wonder how he could make the water last four or five days instead of two. The pain in his head was intense. A few hours and he must give up to the fever. He knew, too, that he had no chance of recovery.

He knew that Harry would give him all the water there was, when he became delirious, and go without bimself. He couldn't measure it out then, as he did now, and soon, very soon, it would be all gone

Louisiana Red Cypress LUMBER!

"When wood first came to be employed in the arts, the durability, fragrance and beauty of Cypress caused it to be selected for costly buildings, such as the palace of David and the temple of Solomore."

History repeats itself, and Cypress is again coming in general use in the best buildings, for the following reasons.

It will take paint better than any other wood.

It partakes of the highest polish.
It is the most durable wood in the world.
It is proof against insects and vermin.
It will not rot and is theap.

waves and the silence of the sauds, and rom Dudley sank with a moan upon the beach.

The forced expression of cheerfulwent out of Harry's face as his prother left the hut, and he fell back whausted upon the bed.

"Poor Tom, poor Tom!" he murmured. "To die like a rat in a trap! Oh. God! will the Martha never come? Oh, if I could but do something!" He half rose from the couch and gazed ground the little hut.

"Two days, only two days more," he groaned, "and then—and then—oh, will aid never come!" He closed his eyes and sank back upon his bed. "Water enough for both for two days, Tom said," he repeated to himself; "only two days for both, but were there but one to drink, four or maybe five days with care. The Martha or some other vessel will surely be here in that time. But in two days the owners will hardly have had time to learn of her loss and send out another schooner.

"Tom, dear old Tom"—and his blue eyes filled with tears—"you shall be saved, anyway."

His eyes wandered around the hut again, as if in search of something, and fixed upon a cupboard on the wall. "They say it is an easy death," he nurmured—"that stuff we took from Malay Tom." By a superhuman effort he arose, staggered to the cupboard, and took a small tin can from one of the shelves. It was filled with a sticky green sub-

"Ten grains should do it," he decided, "though Malay Tom used to take as much as that to make him drunk."

He put some of the stuff on the blade of his knife, looked at it eagerly for a moment, and then swallowed it Then he staggered back again to the bed, and fell limp across the mattress. For a moment he lay there without moving; then a sharp report roused him and he raised his head.

It was then that Tom's pistol broke the silence. Harry started, raised his head, and tried to get up. But the drug was acting, and he could not rise.

"I wonder what Tom is shooting at," he said half aloud; "dear old Tom; he'll be sorry at first, but then, he'll be saved-to go home-and take care of mother."

He felt happy, strangely happy, and he began to laugh.

He thought he could see the old home again. He could hear the birds singing in the apple tree before his bedroom window; there seemed to be so many-more than ever before. He wandered down by the little brook that ran through the meadow.

How sweet the water sounded as it rippled over the pebbles; and the long grass, how tempting; it was so cool and shady, that he longed to lie in it forever.

But he could not, he must not. Tom was calling from down in the orchard -calling to him-was waiting for him. "Yes, Tom, yes; I'm coming-coming," he called.

He sprang from the bed and commenced to run. He was speeding through the meadow; then he climbed the high fence that separated it from the orchard. He was running as fast as he could, but Tom kept calling, and his mother, too. Their voices were growing fainter, fainter, as though they were running away from him.

Even then the Martha had sighted the little guano island and was making for the cove of anchorage. They found the bodies of the two brothers side by side on the sand, and in the hut water enough for both for two days.—Argosv. A CAUTIOUS MAN.

He Had Accommodated One Man and Was Not Going to Be Caught the Same Way Again.

"Before I went west," remarked the man who had just returned, "I heard a good deal about western hospitality. It is there all right enough, although at one time I came near thinking other-

"While I was there I had occasion to visit a former friend, and while driving out where he lived I noticed that a bolt on my wagon had become loose. While I was examining it, a native came along. The horses I was driving were spirited ones, and not daring to leave them, and seeing I would need a monkey-wrench, I asked the newcomer if he would go to the house near by and see if he could borrow one for me. As a further inducement I exhibited a 25cent piece.

"'I'd like ter oblige ye, stranger,' replied the native, earnestly, as he looked longingly at the money I held out. 'I really would. But ye see, I've gone out of the accommodatin' biz'ness.' "'Why?' I asked, bluntly.

"'Wul,' he answered, as he shifted uneasily about on his feet, 'las week I wuz comin' along this yere road when I met a neighbor of mine. 'Bill,' said he,' I wish ye would go up ter my house an' see if my wife is than.' Wul, I like ter be accommodatin' an' all thet, so I went. Right thar wuz whar I made a mistake, fer no sooner wuz I at the door then I wuz hit with a mop-handle. a skillet, three iron pans an' a few other things that I didn't hev time ter take any notice of. Of course she 'pologized when hit wuz all over, sayin' thet she thought I wuz her husband, but I can't see how that made matters any better fer me. Thet's how things stand, stranger. I'd really like ter accommodate ye, I really would. Maybe hit's jes' ez ye say hit is an' hit ain't nothin' but a monkey-wrench that ye want; an' then maybe yer wife lives up than an' ye wish ter find out whether she is on the warpath or not. I can't afford ter take any changes. I'm a married man myself. But if yer want ter go up thar I'll go with ye an' stand out in the middle of the road an' lend my moral support."

he fait for the Interpretation of Nrs. Threirs Will.

The case of Isanc R. Clements and Nathan M. Hallock, individually and as excutors, against Dwight Babcock and others for an interpretation of the will of the late Maretta Thrail, was before Judge Hirschberg, in special term at Newburgh, Saturday.

Daniel Fun, attorney for the plainties, made a statement of the facts in the scase. The will directed that the executors sell the real cetate and divide the proceeds among the persons entitled to receive it. Mrs. Thrall's nearest relatives are twenty-three cousins and the queskion at issue is whether the proceeds of the sale of the real estate are to be distributed as personal property, in which event they will go to the cousins, or whether they are to be distributed as real estate in which event they will go to the heirs of her father, Albert E. Babcock, since the property came to her by inheritance from him.

Isaac R. Clements was the only witness examined and he testified to the fact that Mrs. Thrail's real estate was inherited from her father.

A number of lawyers appeared for various parties in interest and the judge gave them two weeks in which to submit briefs.

The estate left by Mrs. Thrall has been Inventoried at $117,750.

THE GERMAN VOLKSFEST.

A Very Great Success—The Watnerchor's Newburgh Guests-The German Wed-

The volkslest at Mænnerchor Park, on Labor Day, was a great and glorious success. The attendance was very large, and all had the best of good times, the merrymaking having been kept up till 4 o'clock this morning.

The Mænuerchor had as its guests the Newburgh Meenuerchor and Turn Verein, about 120 in number. They arrived on O. and W. No. 1, and were met by the local organization, headed by the O. and W. Silver Band, and escorted to the Mænnerchor's ball, where addresses of welcome were made by President Forthoffer and Theodore Reinecke. After responses had been made lunch and refreshments were served.

The parade to the park to the fine music of the O. and W. band attracted muca attention. At the park during the afternoon the German wedding was the feature of special interest. Twenty-four gaily dressed young people parti-ipated in the ceremony. The bride was Miss Mary Donle, of New York, and the groom was William Huff, of this city, and the "officiating clergyman" was a "Newburgh Turn Vereiner.

IN SEARCH OF OLD FRIENDS.

We Found them in the City of the Dead.

Stephen S. Conkling, one of the few survivors of primitive Middletown left to us, availed himself of the Erie's recent Carbondale excursion to revisit Honesdale, Pa., of which place he was a resident sixty-one years ago. On his way there he looked forward with pleasant anticipations of friendly greetings with the many persons whose acquaintance he had formed in days so long gone by. So well has be himself breasted the assaults of time that it did not occur to him that those friends of his young manhood had all crossed the dread river to the other side; but this was the shock that came to him. He went to where they had hved, but they were not there. Of them all not one remained to take him by the hand. Then he turned his steps, saddened by the day's experience, to that last place of rest for mortality, thecity of the dead, and there he found them at rest from their labors, waiting to meet him where life is eternal, where friendships are everlasting.

is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALI-FORMIA FIG SYRUP Co. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company -
